

Filisia

Filisia works in the field of patient engagement. We develop sensor-based devices (hardware and software) that enable people with musculoskeletal, cognitive and neurological disabilities to play music while stimulating their cognitive function and physical exercising. Our product is modular and highly customisable to the needs and abilities of each user, and operates as a sensory integration and therapy assessment tool. We are currently at the beta testing phase and plan to launch in November 2014.